European Immigrants to the U. S. Headed Off.

CONVENIENT CANADA WAS WATCHED

American Surgeons Look Closely After the Hordes.

No More Sneaking Over the Border Line—Entrance Now as Hard as Ever—Steamship Companies Have Been Deluding the Immigrants—Telling No Trouble About Landing.

New York, Aug. 28.—Dr. Sinnor, commissioner of immigration for this port, started on Saturday for Boston, where he will join Superintendent Stump and go with him to the Canadian border, where they will make an effort to establish a better system of inspection for immigrants coming to this country by way of Canada. Mr. Stump has been informed that foreign steamship companies were seeking customers, advertising abroad that immigrants to the United States could readily effect an entrance by way of Canada, where they would run no risk of being detained and sent back. Mr. Stump says he has long known that considerable immigration was coming in by this route, it being used by the pauper and criminal classes, who would not be able to run the gauntlet at New York. The marine hospital service has established a branch at Quebec, which is doing admirable work among immigrants afflicted with contagious diseases crossing the border. By arrangement with the Canadian authorities immigrants arriving at Quebec bound for the United States must submit to examination by a United States surgeon, and cannot cross into the United States without a health certificate from the surgeon. The surgeons have only to consider the health of immigrants and do not inquire into their history or financial condition. The efforts of Mr. Stump on his present trip will be directed to making some arrangement with the railroads for the establishment of inspecting stations near the frontier at places mutually agreed upon.

BLAND'S COMPUTATION.

How He Thinks the Wilson Repeal Bill Will Go.

Washington, Aug. 28.—Mr. Bland concedes the defeat of all his amendments to the house to-day by a majority of nearly 50 and the passage of the Wilson repeal bill by a much larger vote. The estimate made by the anti-silver men last night is that a majority against the amendment of free coinage at the ratio of 16 to 1 will be 50. On each of the succeeding votes this majority will be increased until upon the direct question of repeal it will approximate 100. These figures, together with the detailed vote as the anti-silver men may expect it, will be cast to-day, were shown to Mr. Bland last night. He carefully examined the poll and said: "I shall not be surprised if the expectations of anti-silver men are fully realized; indeed they may poll even a larger vote than is indicated by these lists. For all I know they may succeed in pulling over to their side a good many more of our men before the vote is taken to-morrow. Everybody knows the tactics being employed, and the result should surprise nobody familiar with the situation."

"Then you have no hope of defeating the Wilson bill?"

"Not the slightest. Its passage is a foregone conclusion."

"Will the senate pass the Wilson bill?"

"I believe it will pass the senate without much delay; indeed I would not be surprised to see it go through without any friction almost any day."

By parties the vote and poll by the anti-silverites is as follows: For the amendment, Democrats 116, Republicans 27, Populists and Independents 9, total 152; against the amendment, Democrats 102, Republicans 100.

RIFLEMAN'S DAY.

Opening of the Canadian Rifle Matches at Ottawa.

Ottawa, Aug. 28.—When morning broke on Rideau range to-day it looked threatening, there being heavy clouds hovering around, but by 8 o'clock it commenced to clear up and at 9, when the first gun was fired in the nursery match, the weather, despite a little haziness in the air, was all that could be desired. The scores made were marvellous; the highest score in the nursery match was the possible 25. Private Lamb of Manitoba, made $4 with 20; Private Tait, $3 with 18, and Private Lemon counted out with 17. Last year fourteens got in. In this match the British Columbia team did well. Corp. Hunter, of Victoria, tied for third place with 24, getting $10. Gunner Turnbull sixth with 22, and Gunner Huston 5th with 20 points.

In the Hamilton Powder Company's match, 500 yards, seven rounds, Chamberlain and Turnbull took $4 with 31 points. Shooting was phenomenal, there being four ties with four possibles for first position, among these was Lieut. C. N. Mitchell of Winnipeg.

There were 48 with 30 counted out. Langley and Martin got 30, Hunter 29, Quigley 28, Huston 22.

Revolution in Nicaragua Promised—Mexican Railway Construction.

Panama, Colombia, Aug. 28.—El Espanol, a Panama newspaper, says there will be a new revolution in Panama within a fortnight. Its statement is based upon the assertion of General Plazas, who is now in Costa Rica. He told the paper's correspondent the Nicaraguan Conservatives would invite Gen. Sacasa to return, and in overthrowing Sehaya start another revolution before the meeting of the constituent assembly on September 15th. Elections for choosing members of that body were held in Nicaragua today.

City of Mexico, Aug. 28.—A contract has been signed for the construction of a railroad from the City of Mexico to the port of Tecuanapa on the Pacific coast. The proposed line will pass through the states of Guerrero, Puebla and Caxtea. The concession carried with it the right to build a number of branch lines. It is said there is plenty of capital behind the project and that the construction will begin soon.

Fatal Railway Collision.

Long Island City, L.I., Aug. 28.—A serious accident occurred shortly after midnight this morning on the Long Island railroad near Newton. The train that left Manhattan beach at 11.15 was overtaken by the train that left Rockaway beach ten minutes earlier. The later train plunged into and plowed its way completely through the two rear cars of the Manhattan beach train and partly wrecked the third, killing 13 and injuring fatally and otherwise 20 others. Among the killed was Col. E. A. Buck, editor of the Spirit of the Times.

THE GOLDEN STATE.

One Day's Happenings in Sunny California.

San Francisco, Aug. 28.—It is reported that the town of Biggs, in Butte county, was entirely wiped out by fire this morning.

It has been decided to hold a meeting on Thursday next of the standing committee of the grand lodge of Odd Fellows to investigate the books of ex-Assistant Secretary Pridwell. Grand Secretary Walter B. Lyon has made a formal request that his books be thoroughly looked over at the same time. Pidwell was not under bonds, and if discrepancies are found in his accounts they will have to be made good by Grand Secretary Lyon.

E. S. Pratt, of Mobile, Ala., the newly-appointed consul-general to Singapore, arrived here last night en route to his position, and will leave on the next steamer. During the New Orleans exposition he was commissioner from Alabama. He was for five years, beginning with Cleveland's first administration, United States minister to Persia.

The steamer Umatilla sailed for Victoria with the following passengers: Mrs. H. I Yack, J. P. Little, Ben. Barney and wife, Miss L. Smallwood, Miss L. Rodden, Mrs. A. K. Hare, Mrs. J. McWhinney, A. P. Brown, J. Donovan and wife, H. Willoughby and wife, Miss Ellen McRankin.

Henry A. Cummins, assistant treasurer of the Southern Pacific Company, was stricken with paralysis yesterday afternoon and died at 9 this morning, aged 38. He leaves a widow and two children. He had been connected with the company from boyhood.

J. H. Cosgrove, proprietor of the Wave, a weekly paper, was assaulted this morning and badly beaten by T. Beall, a well-known society man, who had taken umbrage at an article published in last Saturday's Wave, placing a friend of Beall's in a ridiculous light before the public. Beall was arrested.

Visalia, Cal., Aug. 28.—To-day at 12:30 Bergstrom's planing mill, box factory and machine shop were burned, together with a large stock of box material. Loss probably $10,000.

Sacramento, Cal., Aug. 28.—Special Officer Charles Wetzel was shot and fatally wounded by George Clack a few minutes before 12 last night. His assailant was quarreling with a colored man. Wetzel interfered, when the man placed a pistol against his stomach and fired. The murderer escaped.

BLOUNT'S DEFEAT

His Amendments on American Silver Proposition

ARE UNEQUIVOCALLY REJECTED

Other Similar Suggestions Meet With a Like Fate.

Congress Begins Work in Earnest Consideration of the Sherman Act—Question of Repeal Approaching—Mayor Carter Harrison, of Chicago, to Take Unto Himself a Wife.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28.—The 17 to 1 amendment was defeated, yeas 100, nays 240; 19 to 1 amendment defeated, yeas 105, nays 237; 18 to 1 free coinage amendment rejected, yeas 102, nays 239.

The house began to vote on the Bland free coinage substitute at 12 o'clock. Bland's 16 to 1 free coinage proposition was defeated, yeas 123, nays 225.

The speaker commanded order at 12 Nearly every seat in the hall was filled, an unmistakable evidence of the general and individual interest in the matter in hand. Chaplain Haddaway prayed briefly and in a voice inaudible at a distance of more than ten feet from the desk, for the especial gift of wisdom and judgment to rightly settle the great question before the house. After the reading of the journal, Weaver of New York appeared at the bar of the house on the arm of his colleague, General Tracy, and was sworn in by the speaker.

The resolution contained in the order of procedure on the silver question was reported by the clerk, for a vote first upon the free coinage of silver at the present ratio of 16 to 1. Representative Bailey of Texas asked if, in the event of all the amendments included in the order being defeated, would it be in order to propose an additional amendment germane to the subject. Speaker Crisp replied that as at present advised he would answer no. That order provides exhaustively all that the house may consider; but when the time came to formally present the question the gentleman from Texas might be heard.

Representative McGillan desired to offer an amendment providing for free coinage of the product of the silver mines of the United States, but Mr. Bland objected, saying such a proposition was no free coinage at all.

The roll was then called upon the amendment to the Wilson bill providing for the free coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1. The announcement of the vote was received with applause and surprise at the majority against free coinage, it being nearly double the largest estimate made by the anti-silver committee. Mr. Bland from his seat speaker smiled grimly as he heard the result, nervously rocking to and fro. The figures to seem to show that a majority of the Democratic members voted against free coinage at the ratio of 17 to 1, and secured it.

As the clerk began calling the roll Mr. Bryan walked down the centre aisle and around to where the silver leader sat. They sat consulting some time, then Mr. Bryan by easy stages made his way back to his own seat. The vote on the question of free coinage at the ration of 17 to 1 resulted: Yeas, 100; nays, 240. On this vote, beside the loss of the Populist votes, the members of that party withholding heir votes, there were several negative votes from those who voted in favor of a ratio of 16 to 1.

Bland then offered an amendment providing free coinage at a ratio of 18 to 1, and demanded yeas and nays. There were protests against this and cries of "No," but 85 seconded the request and the roll was again called on this question: Yeas, 102; nays, 239.

The 20 to 1 amendment was likewise rejected: Yeas, 119; nays, 222.

The Senate was scantily attended. The voting on silver in the House attracted all the attention. Sherman gave notice of an address to the Senate on silver next Wednesday. Walcott (Colo) follows on Thursday. The bill to allow National banks to increase their circulation was then taken.

The next amendment providing for free coinage at the ratio of 19 to 1, was then offered, and yeas and nays demanded. The roll was called showing the following vote: Yeas, 105; nays, 237.

The amendment to enact the Bland act was defeated: Yeas, 130; nays, 213.

Light gains on the higher ratios were not unexpected by some of the leaders, and it was the published expression of these that the ratio of 20 to 1, the next amendment offered, Mr. Bland would poll the largest vote recorded in favor of free coinage. The result of the roll call was: Yeas, 119; nays, 222.

The Wilson repeal bill passed, 239 to 110.

Appeal to Gladstone.

London, Aug. 28.—That the prevailing condition of affairs in England is no more favorable than the unfortunate condition of affairs that has thrown so many out of employment in America during the past few months is proved by the following letter received to-day by Mr. Gladstone, endorsed by nearly a dozen of the most influential labor organizations in the United Kingdom. The communication is as follows: "The undersigned is instructed by resolution to write to you asking definitely whether the government is prepared to do anything for the unemployed, the number of whom at the present moment is unprecedentedly large. I am to add that unless the government takes immediate steps in the matter the tens of thousands of men and women who are starving will be compelled to take matters into their own hands." Just what the government could or should do under the circumstances is not indicated, but the fact remains that there are more workmen out of employment than ever before and less prospect of any speedy relief from a revival of industry.

WHAT ALFRED GETS.

Something More Than the Rulership of Saxe-Coburg Gotha.

Berlin, Aug. 26.—The succession of the Duke of Edinburgh to the rulership of the duchies of Saxe-Cobourg and Gotha dominates political interest in Germany, and widely divergent rumors in regard to the matter are everywhere circulated. Putting all these aside, there is no doubt that the succession of the British duke has surprised and dissatisfied the nation, though the fact is quietly accepted by the duchies concerned. It is probable that Emperor William would have preferred that Prince Alfred, the only son of the Duke of Edinburgh, should have succeeded Duke Ernest. Indeed, it is believed his majesty hoped that he might induce his uncle, the Duke of Edinburg, to waive his claim to succession in favor of Prince Alfred. His majesty is reported to have told the duke that under any circumstances a regency would be impossible and he must take the throne himself or abandon all connection with the duchies. Finding the duke resolute in his determination to forego none of his rights, and also finding his mother, Queen Victoria, supporting him in his attitude, the emperor put on the best face possible and acquiesced to the duke's succeeding.

The extremist press, Radical and Conservative alike, indulge in Anglophobia criticism. They have seen the inexpediency of admitting a relative of a powerful foreign house into the secrets of the federation. Nothing is yet known as to the disposition of the late duke's property. It has always been supposed that he was immensely wealthy. Certainly his estates are extensive enough. Apart from palaces, castles and shooting lodges owned by him in Germany, he was proprietor of one of the finest sporting domains in Europe, situated in the Suabian Tyrol. All these properties are entailed and pass to his successor.

Vanderbilt's Yacht Valiant.

New York, Aug. 26.—W. K. Vanderbilt's new twin screw yacht Valiant passed Sandy Hook bound in yesterday afternoon. She is the finest private yacht afloat. She was launched May 3rd, from Laird Bros., at Birkenhead, England. Among those present at the launching were the Duchess of Manchester and her daughter, Lady Alva Montague, the latter performing the christening ceremonies. The chief dimensions of the Valiant are 332 feet over all, 310 feet between perpendiculars, 39 feet 6 inches extreme beam, depth moulded, 25 feet 6 inches; tonnage, 2,400 tons. The vessel has a double bottom, subdivided into ten compartments, which will hold fully 2,000 tons of water as a ballast. She is fitted with twin screws of bronze and steel, driven by two sets of triple expansion engines. Mr. Vanderbilt came in on the Valiant. He was accompanied by W. S. Hoyt. His brother, F. W. Vanderbilt, went down the bay in his yacht Congress to meet the Valiant, and at Stapleton the Valiant's owner and Mr. Hoyt boarded the other yacht and were brought to New York. The Valiant will remain at Stapleton until to-morrow, when she will start for Newport. A trip to Nice is to be made shortly. The observer at Sandy Hook spied the Valiant about 1 o'clock steaming toward New York. So big was she that he took her for an ocean steamer at first, but there was a yachty look about the graceful craft, and it was not long before he made up his mind that the vessel was the Valiant.

La Normandie Won.

New York, Aug. 26.—A cable despatch has been received at the office of the Havre-American steamship company from Southampton about a race between the Paris and La Normandie from this port to England. The Paris left here at 8 o'clock on Wednesday of last week for Southampton. La Normandie left for the same port at 10 o'clock on the same morning. Both carried United States mails, and there was a contest to see which vessel could get the mail matter to London first. The news of the race spread among the down town merchants, who are interested in getting early information to their London agents. La Normandie is one of the cracks of the Havre line, and both vessels were anxious to make good time. The Paris arrived at Southampton seven hours behind La Normandie, making the trip in 6 days 23 hours and 30 minutes. La Normandie's time was 6 days 16 hours and 30 minutes. Special trains had been ordered to convey the mails from each vessel on her arrival at Southampton to London. La Normandie went to her dock, and these had her mail transferred to the train. The mail arrived at the London post office at 7 o'clock on Wednesday evening. The Paris arrived early the next day. Her mail was taken off in a tender and put aboard the train and whisked off. It reached the London post office at 2.30 that afternoon.

The Socialist Element.

Chicago, Aug. 28.—The growing influence and numerical strength of the socialistic and other radical elements that a few years ago were classed along with the anarchists is strikingly shown in the extensive preparations that have been made for entering into the fall campaign with a view to capturing some of the local offices. A mass conference is is to be held to-night under the auspices of a committee of the socialistic labor party, and to which "all such organizations as are in favor of independent political action based upon the socialistic labor platform" are asked to lend their support. While there is no possibility of the new element controlling anything like a majority of the votes of the city, it is possible that they may make a sufficient showing of strength to secure terms from one of the old parties.

Harrison Going to Marry.

New Orleans, Aug. 28.—F. T. Howard, brother of Miss Annie Howard, has announced that the marriage of Miss Howard to Mayor Carter Harrison of Chicago will take place in the latter part of September at the summer home of the Howards at Biloxi. It is also stated the wedding will be attended by a large party of Mr. Harrison's friends and relatives from Illinois, and that there will be a gathering of all the Howard family.

Keeley Cure Convention.

Chicago, Aug. 28.—The third national convention of the Keeley League, which is to be held in this city next month, will be the greatest anti-liquor demonstration that has ever yet been held. Headquarters have already been established, and nearly 5,000 visitors have secured accommodation in advance. Judge L. N. Maxwell, president of the Keeley institute of Washington, as well as the superintendents of nearly all the branches throughout the country, are making ex- The convention will consist of day and evening sessions of both the league and the Woman's Auxiliary, and the proceedings will wind up with a grand celebration at the World's Fair, when it is estimated that between 20,000 and 30,000 graduates will be present.

THERE WAS GORE.

Police and Populace Come Into Fierce Armed Conflict.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—The police and the unemployed came into a collision this afternoon at the south entrance to the city hall. The police, under Inspector Ross, charged on the men as they marched past and scattered them in every direction. Clubs were freely used, and men and women knocked down and trampled under foot. Some of the mob tried to get hold of the loose paving stones, but the crowd was too thick to admit of it. The mob and spectators were driven in every direction, and soon filled the hallways and offices of every building in the vicinity.

Inspector Ross was struck on the head by a stone in the midst of the fight and a gash three inches long cut in his head. He was knocked senseless and was carried to a drug store, where the wound was sewed up. On Ross going down the crowd set up a cheer and made a rush for him and tried to beat the life out of him. His men rallied around him, however, and a pitched battle waged around the prostrate inspector, but the police were victorious in the end, and drove the crowd from their superior, when they formed around him and beat their way through the crowd to the drug store by pure force.

Word was at once sent to all sections in the vicinity, and in a few minutes the police were on their way to the scene from every direction. In an incredibly short time several hundred were in and around the city hall, but they were as nothing to the crowd that gathered. Thousands of men rushed from the adjoining buildings and the street was blocked by wildly excited men, so that it was impossible for the police or any one else to move for a time.

The cause of the trouble was the upsetting of a buggy on Washington street. A crowd came from Wabash avenue and stopped the cable cars on Wabash avenue, State and Dearborn streets.

At West Clark street a cab tried to get through the line. The men in the parade jumped upon it, and it was only by plying his whip vigorously that the driver got through. Then a mail wagon was delayed, but one policeman by the free use of his club got it through the line. The next thing was a buggy, and that was capsized. Then the police charged.

One man arrested gave his name as Joseph Wendel and said he was from Bridgeport. He was caught just as he was hurling a brick.

A few moments later another Pole, who gave his name as Michael Herowitz, was arrested at the south door of the hall. The prisoner, it is said, threw the stone that struck Inspector Ross. He was wild with excitement and vowed he would have blood. In his pocket was found a revolver and a box of cartridges. As soon as Herowitz was arrested a crowd of his friends rushed to rescue him, but they were beaten back by the police. Several were knocked down, but none were fatally hurt.

Before the parade started the idle workmen held their daily meeting at the foot of Columbus street on the lake front. Some one raised a black flag, and under its gloomy shadow several orators talked to the crowd. Then the black flag was taken down and the stars and stripes put up and the parade to the city hall began.

Inspector Ross, after having his wound dressed, was taken to his office.

"It was a pavingstone which hit me," he said. "The wound is a painful one, but I think it will be all right soon. These men were armed with everything. Some of them had revolvers, but they did not make very much of a show with them. I know I would never have gotten out had I not drawn my revolver. An officer who was with me and not in uniform escaped without a scratch. They seemed to take delight in getting in a blow on a uniformed officer."

"Those fellows were not the unemployed," said one of the men after the riot. "They were not the men who paraded the other day. The parade was made up of men from the black road. I recognized many of them."

At the time that the riot broke out Mayor Harrison was in a barber shop, and as soon as he heard of the riot he started to the city hall and arrived there just after Acting Chief of Police Brennan has sent Inspector Ross to his room to have his wounds dressed. At the foot of the elevator he met Chief Brennan.

"Brennan, I want no more street parades," said the mayor. "Watch the meetings, keep your officers on the lake front and allow no disturbances, and break up any meeting that may become disorderly."

General Dispatches.

Middletown, Conn., Aug. 28.—Horace Johnson of this county, who predicted the recent storms, says there is another of still greater severity to come from September 6th to 10th, and in comparison with which the recent tempest will be insignificant. In his prediction Mr. Johnson has not laid particular stress upon the storm just passed, but has said it would be followed by another which would prove the worst in the history of the country. He predicts that a great tidal wave will roll into the Bay of New York, sweep along the docks and for a time completely submerge them. He warns the residents and owners of property in these cities to remove their goods from the water front.

QUESTION OF INDEMNITY.

Interesting Case Before the Illinois Courts for Trial.

Springfield, Ill, Aug. 28.—One of the most remarkable cases based upon a question of identity that has ever come up in the courts of this state was re-opened to-day in the United States District Court, being the hearing of arguments for a new trial in the celebrated Newby-Benton case. The trial hinges on the question whether the claimant, Newby, is or or is not the rightful owner of that name. Upon this point depends his title to a pension. According to the decision in the first trial Newby is not Newby, but Benton, and therefore he is not entitled to a pension, but has, on the contrary, been guilty of an attempt to secure money under false pretenses.

The claimant, however, has many friends in the vicinity of Fairfield, and a large subscription has been raised in his behalf for the purpose of securing a favorable verdict in the new trial, which, it is confidently expected, will be granted. Nearly a dozen affidavits have been filed showing that the jury talked too much during the progress of the trial, and before the defendant, Newby, had presented his case. The case of the prosecution, which was conducted by United States District Attorney Shutt, was based upon the alleged fact that Newby's name was really Benton, but the defense claims that Benton has been dead for years. Popular feeling is growing steadily in the old man's favor, and it is now becoming generally believed that he is a much abused veteran and is a victim of the mistaken zeal of the district attorney. The court room was crowded with a throng of Grand Army men and others interested in the case. The arguments will probably occupy several days, and little doubt is entertained but that a new trial will be granted.

Hume's Chinamen.

San Jose, Cal., Aug. 24.—Sheriff Hollinger and his deputies were ready at the scene of the expected trouble about the Chinese near Los Gatos last night, but no outbreak occurred. Orchardist Hume has received threatening letters because he did not discharge his forty Chinese employees, and it was expected that the threats would be carried into execution last night. The people of Los Gatos and Saratoga, who have taken part in the anti-Chinese agitation will not give up the fight, but claim they will use only lawful means.

California Condor.

Archibald Campbell, a correspondent of the San Diego Sun, writing from Laguna, on the edge of the desert, under date of August 1st, says: To-day as Henry E. Clark was riding near the laguna he noticed a large bird among some carrion crows eating at a steer which had died from a rattlesnake bite. It flew up into a tree, where he shot at it with a rifle and the shot broke its thigh. It then flew away among some rocks, and he threw his riata over it and caught it. It tried to get away and nearly unhorsed him. He gave it another shot through the wing and disabled it. He brought it home and it measured 9 feet three inches across the wings and 4 feet 4 1-2 inches long from the beak to the end of its tail. Valentine, the captain of the Indians, says it is a female and not near as large as the males. The males have the under part snow white, while this is pretty dark. I think it is the cathertes vulturinus, also called the California vulture, which approaches the condor in size, and has wings even longer in proportion. It is very little inferior to the condor in spread of wings, which natural history says often spread to more than ten feet with a breadth of four feet. Last Sunday as a party of us were out on the high peaks overlooking the desert three of the birds kept circling around overhead, and now and again by far the biggest of the birds would swoop down suddenly towards us and make such ugly demonstrations that the ladies got scared and we all left on that account. I thing their young were in the cliffs above us and they wanted to scare us away. The biggest was whiter underneath than the other two, and I think it was one of the smaller birds that was shot. Mrs. Wiegar, from San Diego, who is up here on a visit, skinned the bird, and on her return will take it with her and put it on exhibition at the chamber of commerce. They are very rare here now. Velentine says they used to be very numerous here when he was young. Two years ago we used to see a solitary vulture every now and again, but he disappeared, and now these three are to be seen near the same place. This one, I think, could easily have carried off a spotted fawn, a young calf or a baby.

The Bread-Fruit Tree.

The bread-fruit tree, Artocarpus incisa, seen in the Dutch East Indies and in many of the islands of the South Seas, grows forty to fifty feet high, the fruit being round or slightly oval in shape, first green, then brown and turning yellow when fully ripe. It is from five to eight inches in diameter, and tastes insipid when cooked. I could not determine what the taste was like, unless it was grocery store brown paper. In Samoa and Tahiti the tree yields a succession of two or three crops during eight months in the year. "Its fruitfulness is said to exceed even the generous plantain, upon which the natives of the tropics subsist almost solely, where the bread-fruit is not grown. It dispenses entirely with the labor of the agriculturist, the miller, the baker; there need be no care for the seed-time or harvest; there is no threshing, no grinding, no kneading; in fact, the islanders of the South Seas have their bread ready prepared, and have only to place it on the coals as they need it," says Ober.

This piecing on the coals is a picturesque affair, like a Rhode Island clambake. The fruit is cut up, the core removed, and, hot stones having been placed in a hollow in the earth and covered with leaves, the fruit is laid on top and again covered with leaves and hot stones, on which more bread-fruit is laid, then another layer of leaves and stones, and on top of all earth is heaped to a depth of six inches or more. The hot-stone bake lasts about thirty minutes, and the result is a brown piece of baking bread, white, or perhaps yellow inside, and very nutritious. Some think it is more like plantain than wheat bread. It is almost tasteless when cooked green, but it is highly appreciated by experts when allowed to ripen just a little; not to the yellow state, however, when it has a decaying flavor. I found it impossible to like it very much in any state, but it seems to be acquired taste with some whom I have heard praise it. This is the seed-bearing bread-fruit, which grows throughout Polynesia; but the true bread of the Moluccas, which is propagated only by cuttings—the seeds being entirely aborted by cultivation—is a different plant.

If a Polynesian plants twenty ordinary bread-fruit trees he is independent for life, unless his enemy destroys them. The comunes and, on the same island, tend to famine, as they wantonly destroy each other's cocoanut palms, banana groves and bread-fruit trees. The fibre of the inner bark of the bread-fruit makes good cloth, but coarser than "tapa," made from the paper mulberry tree. The wood is soft and light, of a rich yellow, turning to mahogany in use, just right for the dugout canoe. Then the milky juice obtained by puncturing the bole is used as a gum. Another use is to spread it about as a bird lime to catch the feathered songsters of the woods. A preparation is also made for tarooing. Usually the Polynesian's house is bamboo leaves and grass; but sometimes bread-fruit uprights and beams are used. In fact, this beautiful and useful tree is one of the choicest gifts of nature to the brown man of the tropic seas. Its deeply lobed, dark green, glossy leaves, twelve to eighteen inches long, and its useful, if not luscious fruit, offred him shade and food, and if he does not like baked bread, he puts quantities of it in a hole in the ground, twenty feet in diameter, changing it from sweet to sour, in which state it will keep for months. Some of these silos hold a couple of tons.

The indigenous trees of the West Indies and South America, which are of the Aracarpaceæ family, allied to the bread-fruit, are the bread nut of Jamaica and the milk or cow tree of Demerara. St. Vincent was the first island of the West Indies where the bread-fruit was planted, and there it has flourished to a greater extent than in any other of the Carribean chain, even invading the forest edges to find a companion in the trumpet tree, which looks like it. It grows on plantations, in groves, and in the deeper valleys in a wild state.—American Agriculturist.

Fault Found With the Game Laws.

What British Columbia needs is a number of additional members in her legislature—men with good horse sense and number 11 boots to kick to pieces half the legislation that is cant-hooked forward and rammed through to become afterwards the uncivil code of a long-suffering people. An instance of the happy-go-lucky sort of legislation that is so often pitch-forked into the statute-books of this province may be seen in the amendments last session to the game laws, which permit the shooting of various kinds of game as early as August 12th, while the shooting of male deer is perbitted as early as August 1st. Who the government's ornithologist for the region east of the Cascades may be we are unable to say, but at all events those in the district who are interested in the preservation of game claim that the amendment is a wretched mistake. What the reason can be for allowing game to be killed here on the 12th of August that are protected on the island until October 1st is something that the public would like to find out, but the usual interpretation of it here is that it is to allow Victorians to slaughter game up here for six weeks or more in this part of the province before the open season begins on the coast. This year hunters assert that the prairie chickens and grouse are horribly small, and should not be shot yet for a month or more. The first of September is even too soon to commence the open season, and to permit the killing of deer of any kind after the first of August is to invite infractions of the law. Instead of relaxing any restrictions in the game laws, it would be much better to make them more stringent. This year there is a marked scarcity of chicken and grouse in comparison with former years and this is not to be wondered at considering the wanton slaughter by pothunters from the coast last fall.—Vernon News.

A Muscular Christian.

Burton had been transferred from Fernando Po to the consulate at Santos and San Paolo, where there was a seminary of Capuchins, Frenchmen and Italians, which contained some curious specimens of muscular Christianity. For example: "One of the monks was a tall, magnificent and very powerful man, an ex-cuirassy officer, Count Somebody, whose name I forget, then Fray G——. Before he arrived there was a bully in the town, rather of a free-thinking class, so he used to go and swagger up and down before the seminary and call out, 'Come out, you miserable petticoated monks! come out and have a free fight! For God or the devil? When Fray G—— arrived, he heard of this, and it so happened he had had an English friend, when he was with his regiment, who had taught him the use of his fists. He found that his brother monks were terribly distressed at this unseemly challenge, so he said, 'The next time he comes, don't open the gate, but let the porter call me.' So the next time the bully appeared it was so arranged that the gate was opened by Fray G—— (the usual crowd had collected in the road to see the fun), who looked at him laughingly and said, 'Surely, brother, we will fight for God or the devil, if you please.' So saying, the friar tucked up his sleeves and gown and told his adversary to come on, which he did, and he was immediately knocked into a cocked hat. 'Come, get up, said the friar, 'No lying there and whimpering; the devil won't win that way.' The man stood three rounds, at the end of which he whimpered and hallooed for mercy, and amidst the jeers and bravos of a large crowd the 'village cock' retired, a mass of jelly and pulp, to his own dunghill, and was never seen more within half a mile of the seminary. Richard rejoiced in it, and used to say 'What is that bull-priest doing in that galere?'"—The Life of Captain Sir Richard F. Burton.

Electric Cooking.

The Domestic Science department at the Rhode Island state fair will bring many features of particular interest to the average housekeeper, but there will be one special feature of great interest to every the wall will come numerous electric cooking. This part of the work will occupy the centre space of the department and here a hot water boiler will be heated by electric coils and from the switchboard on the wall will come numerous electric wires which will be attached to cooking utensils on the cooking tables, and the novel sight of cooking on the dining table as it is prepared for dinner will be shown.

The electric cooking outfit consists of an oven, broiler, double broiler, steam cooker, tea and coffee pot, saucepan, tea kettle and chafing dish. The cleanliness of these utensils and the supply of heat produced by simply turning a key, as one would turn on the gas, the absolute control of the heat and the convenience of working where one desires, is beyond all belief, until one can see for himself. Something that every one can do who visits the fair in September, for cooking will be done every day during the fair, using the electric current which lights the building and which will be attached to the cooking utensils. The apparatus will be in charge of an expert who will explain it all. The attention of the hotel men and manufacturers is particularly called to this new feature of state fair work, and to the first complete public exhibit of electric cooking in New England.

Electric cooking will also be shown in the Domestic Science department of the food and health exposition in Providence during November. All cooking will be done by cooking school graduates and full explanation of food products and cooking methods will be given.

When the International League of Press clubs held their annual meeting in St. Paul, they found that the charming little house that belonged to the St. Paul Press club was fully fitted out with the electrical appliances for cooking, and the members were delighted with the cooking. So much so that they were, many of them, preparing to introduce it into their families.

Thos. Murphy, an old and respected resident of Brockville, is dead, aged 73.

Souris, P.E.I., is a great port of rendezvous for American and Canadian fishermen, and a bitter feeling prevails between the men of the respective fleets. A week ago Saturday night a fierce fight took place on the streets, in which Patrick Marr, of the Gloucester schooner Eliza Parkhurst, was stabbed in the arm and back and probably fatally wounded, and another sailor was struck on the head with a hammer and will not recover from the effects of the blow for months. These outrages greatly embittered the feeling between the rival fishermen and the Americans made open threats of retaliation, in consequence of which the local military was called out and patrolled the streets. The feeling is very bitter and serious trouble is anticipated.

In accordance with the Queen's regulations governing the British army, Sergeant-Major Page, of the Royal Canadia Dragoons, just removed to Toronto from Quebec, delivered from the steps of the postoffice a proclamation to the effect that the commanding officer of the corps would be in no way responsible for any debts contracted by the men of the corps, except to the extent of one day's pay. This proclamation is always delivered on the removal of a corps from one city to another.

SOMETHING NEW WANTED.

When one party in a contest stoops to the use of unfair weapons it very surely shows itself hopeless of winning by other means. Just now there are a good many efforts made on the Conservative side to make headway against the Liberals by employing that very mean weapon falsehood. Several of the Conservative papers have been busy during the past few weeks in trying to give life to a lie that has long been dead, namely, that the late Hon. Alexander Mackenzie was "deposed" and "knifed" by his party. The resurrection and circulation of that ancient fib is work congenial to those who are engaged in it, no doubt; but apart from its affording them pleasant occupation for a time, we fail to see what they can hope to gain by it. If they must lie in order to succeed, let them at least invent some new story instead of using one that became utterly discredited long years ago. Some of our Conservitive friends do show a capacity for invention that ought to make the whole lot of them independent of old and exploded yarns. The Hamilton Spectator, for instance, recently offered this pleasant little piece of fiction by way of variety:

"In 1872 the Canadian Pacific railway company was incorporated, and the Northern Pacific managers at once conceived their enterprise to be in danger. They hoped to hold all the country north of the Union Pacific, and to control all the traffic on the Pacific coast north of San Francisco. The Canadian Pacific was a rival to be destroyed if possible; and the government which promoted the Canadian Pacific was to be destroyed as a means to that end. In the elections of 1872 they sent large sums of money into Canada to aid the Reform party, and did their best to defeat the government. They and their allies, the Reformers, were successful the next year, and the Mackenzie government kept faith with the Northern Pacific company by delaying the work, by giving the United States railways access to Winnipeg, by providing an amphibious road "with magnificent water stretches" between Lake Superior and Winnipeg, and by refusing to consider any scheme for reaching the Pacific."

Of course the change from shedding crocodile tears over the Reformers' alleged harsh treatment of Mr. Mackenzie to representing him as the political agent of the Northern Pacific is rather a radical one, and we could not advise all our Tory contemporaries to alter their positions as suddenly as the Spectator has done. We merely wish to show them what one of their number can accomplish in the way of inventing new and artistic falsehoods, so that they may not feel too dependent on the old and shelf-worn stock. But the Spectator is far from possessing a monopoly of the inventive faculty. A youthful genius on the Empire staff, who signs himself J. Castell Hopkins, could surely render his party effective aid in this direction. In a paper on the Canadian Pacific Railway which he contributes to the Westminster Review, he writes as follows:

Attempts were made to build the line as a government work. Large sums of money were spent in surveying possible routes, and finally 714 miles were constructed in the extravagant and unbusiness-like way which Mr. Mackenzie's government seemed to consider the only possible method of construction. The line consisted of three detached portions and made use of water stretches on the route, it being supposed that money would be saved by so doing. The cost of these proceedings was $35,000,000, and it has since been stated that, under proper management, the portion of the road thus built could have been completed for $12,000,000.

Surely when the Conservative press can get the services of a young man capable of producing such a "whopper" as that it does not need to repeat over and over again the old, stale and oft-refuted lie that Mr. Mackenzie was "deposed" from the Reform leadership.

If the Colonist has not already been convinced that it was wrong in regard to sealing restrictions on the Pribyloff Islands, perhaps it will bow before the authoritative assertion of Dr. Dawson, that "being within the territorial limits of the United States the regulation of sealing on these islands was not submitted to the decision of the arbitrators."

An Ottawa correspondent thus states the case as regards the savings bank record recently given out from Ottawa with the usual flourish:

"It is stated that the sum standing in the postoffice savings banks to the credit of depositors at the close of the fiscal year is $24,153,000. If the statement read that this sum was standing in the books of the department it would be correct, but the money is not there. It has not been invested so that it could be realized on demand. It has been spent, every dollar of it, and added to the public debt. If the depositors all demanded their money to-morrow it would have to be borrowed in England and the depositors taxed to pay the interest on the debt. The amount of money paid by the government in interest during the year for the use of this $24,000,000 was between $800,000 and $900,000. The amount of interest paid by the people during the same period for money they borrowed from a portion of the loan companies was $3,469,000. Such was the inability of farmers during the year to find money, much less deposit it in the bank, that they defaulted on mortgages for $4,000,000, and in Ontario alone 881 mortgages were foreclosed to satisfy $2,243,000 during the same period that about $250,000 was deposited in the postoffice savings banks in excess of what was withdrawn, interest included. The value of mortgaged property held for sale in Ontario alone is given by 61 companies at $100,000,000, and this represents probably only one-half of the total farm property being the favorite investment for private and trust funds. The amount in the postoffice savings bank to the credit of the province of Quebec is a little over $2 per head, while Ontario's share represents over $7 per head. In Australia it is $21 per head."

In the Montreal Witness interview with Dr. George M. Dawson that gentleman is reported as saying: "The prohibition of the use of firearms in Behring Sea will inevitably deprive a number of white hunters of the means of making a living, and these men are of a superior class as a rule, by no means 'hostes humani generis,' as they have been termed in the sounding terms of the argument of the United States." We trust the Witness will recognise Dr. Dawson as an impartial and competent observer, and therefore realize that it owes an apology to the sealers for listening to and repeating the American slanders upon them.

Says the Hamilton Spectator: "There are papers in Canada which experienced no joy nor exultation at the coming of the French Canadians from New England, and which can bear the biggest kind of a French Canadian exodus with the utmost fortitude." From the sneering way in which it frequently talks about the "French," we should judge that the Spectator itself is one of those ill-minded papers.

Glasgow's Waterworks.

On the closing day of the British Institute of Public Health's congress at Edinburgh, in the sanitary engineering section, Mr. Gale, C. E., Glasgow, read a paper on Loch Katrine water works. He said that the Loch Katrine works were designed in 1854. At that time the city of Glasgow was supplied by two water companies, the amount introduced being 14,000,000 gallons per day. It was thought that the supply was sufficient to last 50 years at least, but only 25 years had elapsed when it became apparent that additional works would have to be provided. The population increased more rapidly than had been calculated, and the consumption had greatly increased. In 1885 an act was obtained for the extension of the works. These consisted of an additional aqueduct, an increased storage, an additional service reservoir, and additional mains from the reservoir to the city; thus, in fact, duplicating the first works, and providing an ultimate supply of 100,000,000 gallons per day, sufficient to last for the next 40 years. The cost was estimated at £1,150,000. The revenue had increased from 500,000 in 1856-7 to £170,000 last year, while the domestic water rate had been reduced from 14d. per £1 to 6s. per £1. Mr. Leslie, engineer of the Edinburgh Water Trust, said that in Edinburgh the consumption of water was 37 gallons per head per day. Until lately it was nearly 42 gallons, but by repairing the apparatus and attending to the consumption it was reduced to about 37. Several gentlemen from England expressing surprise that the consumption of water should be so great in Scottish towns, Mr. Gale explained that in Glasgow and Edinburgh the large proportion of the houses had hot water and baths. Mr. Leslie said that the flatted houses had something to do with the large consumption. The president said that water was more abundant in Scotland than in England, and therefore more of it was used.

Language as a Determiner of Races.

French anthropologists agree that a few anatomical characters are not enough to determine a type of race, and that it is necessary to investigate all, or as many as possible, of such characters. Anthropology does not interfere with ethnology, because each has its distinctive field of inquiry. Anthropology does not say that physical characters are superior or inferior to linguistic characters; it says that the two sciences are of a different order and for a different purpose. The first relates to the physical element constituting peoples; the second to the classification of these peoples. Language grows, loses, borrows, changes, transforms, and all this independent of anthropological characters such as beliefs, customs, industries. Physical characters are hereditary and inherent in the blood, but linguistic characters are not. If a Red Indian is born among strangers and without the society of his parents or race, he will speak not his own language but that of those who rear him; but he will retain all the physical characters of his race notwithstanding. Different and opposing races may speak the same language, and on the other hand the same race may speak different languages.—Scientific American.

GHASTLY OLD MUMMIES OF PERU

People Who Were Dead and Buried Before Romulus Killed Remus—The Quaternary Mammoth—British Columbia Swashes at the Fair.

(From our Own Correspondent.)

Chicago, Aug. 21.—The building which contains the greatest number of curious things is that devoted to "Anthropology—Man and his works." An interesting part of this bureau is that devoted to crime and its treatment. Without the least fear of permanent incarceration one may step within and duly admire the construction of the most renowned jails in the world. A most comprehensive expose is given of the devices employed for inflicting legal punishments from the beginning of historic times, and showing how gradually authority has learned to temper justice with mercy. We can here inspect exact counterparts of the cells of the Mamertine prison, where St. Paul was confined, the dungeons of the inquisition, the tombs of the Bastile, and the torched chambers of Oriental barbarism. Another unique exhibit is Dr. Sarjent's composite statues of typical Americans, male and female. These he made from the medium measurements of several thousand students from 16 to 20 years of age, selected from twenty American colleges. In the surgical quarter I saw numbers of human brains preserved in alcohol. One's brain is a very insignificant thing when it's put in a bottle for the passing multitude to gaze at. A huge stack of vaccine points of all shapes and sizes reminded me forcibly of yellow flags and suspect stations. I turned aside only to encounter the New York electrocution chair. Many of the curious were anticipating the slow wheels of justice by seating themselves in it, but I forbore.

Wandering through this quaint place one wonders who really did discover America. If Christopher Columbus' ghost is an honorable sort of a spirit it must blush daily to think how much of undeserved glory is thrust upon Christopher at the World's Columbian Exposition. Turning a corner we see something whose very gruesomeness fascinates. It brings to mind Shakespeare's "Let's talk of graves and worms and epitaphs—make dust our paper and with rainy eyes write sorrow on the bosom of the earth." As we look the gay chatter and half-spoken jest die away and instinctively we are silent. Stretched in front of us is an ancient city of Peru, a deserted city one at first thinks, for here lie scattered upon the sand dim pottery, discolored rags, domestic utensils, rude furniture. Where are the ancient people, the owners of all this? Look a little closer and we see that they, too, are here. In shapeless bundles of swathing-clothes lie those who were dead and buried and embalmed long ere the time of Romulus and Remus and who were already a forgotten race when Pizarro made war against the Incas. It seemed to me a ghastly mockery to bring these grinning mummies to North America that the idle and the curious of Jackson Park might gaze and conjecture. With Longfellow, "I like that ancient Saxon phrase which calls the burial ground God's Acre," and it seems to me that in that acre alone should the dead be tenanted. Only six of the hundred mummy bundles are opened, and these show the bodies, doubled up and tied with ropes. They were not embalmed, the dry air of the Andes preserved them. There they sit, crouched up with their claw-like hands crossed on their breasts and the hair matted and twisted falling down over their cracked, wrinkled, distorted old faces. All were not old in one sense of the word), for more than one child's figure, surrounded by its rude playthings appealed to me. The whole scene was pitiful. Man and his boasted cleverness seemed poor and petty. "Death crowns all, and that old common arbitrator Time will one day end it."

In the upper gallery is shown the great Quaternary Mammoth from Wurtemburg. He is calculated to make common ordinary everyday people like you and me feel small as we look up in respectful awe to his huge trunk and giant frame. I think when menagerie elephants get puffed up with their conceit and become unmanageable, as they sometimes do, it would take every particle of pride out of them and they would become as 'umble as Uriah Heep himself if confronted with His Majesty the Mammoth of Wurtemburg. Outside the building are many ethnological exhibits.

We saw totem poles in the distance and hurrying up came to Mr. James Deans and his British Columbian Indians. I poked my head in at the entrance with, "Klahowyah, tillicum!" and before I was well inside I was surrounded by men and squaws, tenass men and maidens. Even a little pappoose cried out joyfully so did their hearts warm to the classic Chinook. "Cah mika lllahie?" demanded one stalwart Siwash. "Victoria," I meekly replied. His broad face opened up in one expansive smile of approbation. "Victoria delate hias klosh," was his verdict. Then his face darkened and he added, "Chicago wahe klosh. Boston man hiyu wa-wa, hiyu manage, manage, manage." Their chief grief was that Lake Michigan, by being "halo salt chuck," was therefore something of a fraud, which coupled with a clam and a salmon fansine made them long for a real juicy humped-back or dogfish, their ancestral muck-a-muck and the freedom of the native heath where they would not be troubled by the ill-bred gaze of the ignoble vulgar. Further along is a family of Eskimos with their kyaks, fishing-tackle and all the native home appurtenances. They too feel the heat and burden of the day and long for home and blubber. A whole Iroquois village is here from York state. They are a fine, manly looking race, far different from their bloodthirsty ancestors who figured so prominently in Canada's early history. These "Six Nation Indians" brought with them polished long bungs and warlike bows and arrows, which, coupled with their dignified air and warlike carriage secure the respect demanded. South of this are thatched houses brought from British Guiana as a government exhibit, also the skin tepees, hogans and other dwellings of the natives of the Northwest. Near here are those wonderful ruins of Yucatan which so puzzle the historian. These monoliths and scattered sculptures are executed in "plaster" from moulds of the original and are scattered round in picturesque confusion. Our scanty gleanings of history seem paltry as we look and wonder and vainly conjecture.

A. D. CAMERON.

A Turk From Windsor, Ont.

Two Windsor gentlemen visited the World's Fair last week and were walking along Clarke street in Chicago one day when two presumably Turkish peddlers approached them and asked them to purchase some of their goods, asking $20 for one article. The two men were dressed as Turks and pretended to be able to speak only a few words of English. The Windsorites were at once struck with the features of one of the "foreigners," which they thought looked familiar. Suddenly struck with an idea, one of the Canadians remarked, "Well, old man, how are you?" The fellow was fairly caught and throwing off his head dress, which hid his face, disclosed the well known features of a man who was a very successful though eccentric auctioneer in this county about two years ago. The article he was selling for $20 cost him only $1.60 and he says he is making money. He felt rather sheepish in being caught in the ludicrous condition. He had not recognized the Windsorites before they recognized him.—Windsor Record."

Sitting Bull Was Scared.

One of the Washington papers lately printed a very amusing account of Sitting Bull's first visit to a theatre. It was a sort of variety performance out west. The closing feature of the programme was an act by a female trapeze performer who was advertised to possess wonderful strength in her jaws. The stage manager announced that she would hang suspended from the trapeze bar by her knees and support a heavy cannon with her teeth while it was being discharged.

The woman finished her trapeze performance and hanging from the bar head downward clapped her hands as an indication that she was ready for the final act. There was a rumbling sound in the wings and then a cannon was run on to the stage with the muzzle pointing directly up the centre aisle.

At sight of the cannon Sitting Bull and his men began to show signs of uneasiness. They shifted about in their seats nervously. Two men lifted the cannon and left it dangling from the woman's jaw. The muzzle of the weapon swung on a level with the Indians' headdress.

Sitting Bull and his warriors by this time had become extremely nervous. They looked at each other inquiringly, as if they suspected that they had been drawn into a trap and were to be deliberately slaughtered. They jabbered to each other excitedly, and two or three times so far forgot their stoicism as to look over their shoulders.

Finally everything was in readiness, and the stage manager stepped back and gave the string that he held a jerk. There was a flash and a roar, and out of the cloud of smoke that shot into the parquet Sitting Bull and his warriors sprang, wildly shouting as they made their way down the aisle, striking madly right and left with the long-stemmed stone pipes that they carried.

Snuff and Snuff Boxes.

Although the origin of snuff taking has not been recorded, smoking takes the precedence and has outlived the snuffing habit, says the Washington Star. Gradually it was discovered that the powder of tobacco possessed as agreeable odor; it was used as a perfume about the year 1702, the early snuff takers carrying with them a small grater with which they reduced the tobacco to powder. Snuff boxes, of course, sprang into use with the spread of the habit, which received a fresh impetus from a discovery made by accident A Dublin tobacconist named Lumdyfast had his shop accidentally destroyed by fire, and while gazing at the ruins noticed that his poor neighbors were gathering the snuff from the canisters. He tested the snuff and fond the fire had largely improved the pungency and aroma. He secured another store, built a lot of ovens, subjected the snuff to a heating process, bestowed upon it a taking name and made a fortune. Snuff boxes were popular with the second empire. The proceeding possessed a certain Napoleonic flavor and boasted of imperial tradition. Napoleon was seldom without a snuff box and took prodigious quantities. George IV. carried a box, but only pretended to apply the powder to his nose. At the regimental mess tables of the time snuff boxes were sent round with the decanters of wine.

It will probably be a matter of surprise to the general reader to learn that the petticoat was first worn exclusively by men. In the reign of King Henry VII. the dress of the English was so fantastical and absurd that it was difficult to distinguish one sex from the other. In the inventory of Henry V. appears "a petticoat of red damask, with open sleeves." There is no mention of a woman's petticoat before the Tudor period. In the matter of costumes the Chinaman is notable for the length and capacity of his skirts, while his wife and daughters wear, and not infrequently display, the breeches. Silk and satin are his favorite materials for clothes, and the handsomer the pattern and more heavy and showy the embroidery the better dressed he considers himself. A necklace of beads forms an indispensable adjunct to the full dress of every mandarin, and a fan is rarely out of his hand.

FIRES EVERYWHERE.

An Epidemic of Grass Fires Around the City.

The heat Saturday and Sunday caused several bush fires and gave the fire department a great deal of trouble. Three o'clock Saturday afternoon there was a bush fire near the orphanage, Cook street. This was not long put out when a grass fire brought the department to the Dallas road. Sunday the first brush fire occurred at Beacon Hill shortly after 11 o'clock. The fire was widely extended. Half an hour and a grass fire called the fire fighters to Fernwood. These two fires were being worked by the department at one time. Two o'clock in the afternoon the rubbish around the Protestant orphanage again took fire and the fires of the day were terminated by a blaze at the residence of J. A. Grahame, Hillside avenue. The blaze was caused by sparks from the chimney which ignited the roof.

The afternoon of Sunday the grass on Trial Island took fire. The fire took in the entire island and burned two old shacks. The summer domicile of Jimmy Chickens and wife, but the well known couple were not burned in the flames having resided for some time past at the Queen's boarding house under charge of Manager John.

CAPT. MEYER THREATENED.

A Portland Crank Promises to Blow the Danube Up.

The steamer Danube, Capt. Meyer, returned from Portland yesterday and passed up to Vancouver in the evening. Fifty-eight of the Danube's passengers were allowed to land and 44 were rejected. Some were admitted by the collector and others by the court. She also brought back five of the passengers who were refused a landing from the Haytien Republic.

Just before leaving Portland Capt. Meyer received the following threatening letter dated Aug. 24th:

"Listen. If you dare to land another cargo of Chinese at Portland we will blow your d—d old boat to h—l. Now don't forget it. By order or the sworn legion of justice." The bottom of the sheet was ornamented with a rude drawing of a skull and crossbones and a dagger dripping with gore. Capt. Meyers said such rot was not worthy of notice.

NORTHERN CANNERS CLOSE.

Workmen Returning From the North—Salmon Coming Down.

Two northern boats, the Princess Louise and Barbara Boscowitz, arrived yesterday. Both brought a large number of passengers and a heavy freight. The Louise had several hundred white, Indian and Chinese passengers. Her salmon cargo consisted of 2,206 cases B. A. P. Skeena, 1,203 Gardner's Inlet and 1,675 River's Inlet for the C. P. R. and 300 cases Inverness, 484 Balmoral and 320 Lowe's Inlet for Victoria. The Boscowits had besides her white passengers 110 Chinese and Indians and 4,080 cases of salmon, all for the C. P. R.

All the canneries with the exception of those at Gardner's and River's Inlets have closed. The two latter will have full packs.

DEATH OF M. C. BROWN

He Passed Away Early Yesterday Morning After a Short Illness.

Rev. M. C. Brown, pastor of St. Luke's church, Cedar Hill, passed away at an early hour yesterday morning, after a short illness. A complication of disorders which culminated in a serious attack of pneumonia caused death. While he had been very ill, the situation was not such as to give alarm to those who watched at his bedside until a short time before the end came. The deceased was a well-known and respected member of the comunity, having resided in the province for a number of years. He held the pastorate of St. Luke's from its organization. The deceased was a native of Sligo, Ireland, and 52 years of age. He was a graduate of Trinity College, from which he had a degree, and held many important posts in Ireland and England before coming to Canada. He was a most enthusiastic Irishman, being one of the organizers of the Sons of Erin of Victoria. He was a Mason and a member of several fraternal and benevolent societies. He leaves a wife and six children. One of his sons is employed at the custom house in the capacity of secretary to Collector Milne. Another son is absent in California, but is now on his way home to be present at the funeral.

The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. The Masonic lodge will assemble at the Masonic Temple at 2 o'clock. The services will be conducted by the Lord Bishop of Columbia, who, being a Mason, will as well read the Masonic service. The remains will be interred in the churchyard of St. Luke's.

The Gedney in Port.

The U. S. survey steamer Gedney, Lieut. Lucian Flynne commander, is in the harbor for a few days. She has been down near the cape for several weeks, and the scientists aboard have been carrying forward the work of completing the triangulation of the straits. They will return to their labor almost immediately and will be engaged for about a month yet. Their work will be of inestimable value.

Boundary Survey Party.

W. F. King and C. H. Warden of the Canadian Alaska boundary survey party arrived from Ottawa last evening and will leave for Alaska by the steamer City of Topeka on Thursday. The object of their trip is to make arrangements for the return of the parties which are now in the field. The explorers and surveyors and their men will come to Victoria for the winter, returning north in the spring.

Excursion From Townsend.

A party of excursionists from Port Townsend numbering two hundred visited the city last evening and spent several very pleasant hours seeing the various sights. The visitors came on the City of Kingston, arriving shortly before 5 o'clock, and left on the same steamer at 9 o'clock. Captain Roberts kindly held the boat half an hour beyond the usual time. The excursion was arranged by S. G. Yerkes, agent at Port Townsend for the Northern Pacific, and was one of the best conducted affairs of the season.

The Freer Case.

The officers of the City of Kingston are as much amused as anything else at the charges made by Frank Freer after his arrest at San Francisco for smuggling. Said one of them: "Freer made the same general charges once before and no attention was paid to them. When the Times said they were untrue and unjust the nail was once more hit upon the head." In Victoria the arrest of Freer caused considerable comment. It is not believed here that he was "tipped off," but his child-like innocence in using false-bottomed trunks and then claiming them after they were detained is laughed at.

Had to Catch the Kingston.

Magistrate Macrae had four cases to deal with in the police court this morning. He fined Neal Herra and George Bedford each $5 for drinking more than was good for them. W. Smith and Welter King were convicted of fast driving over the Point Ellice bridge. Smith did not appear and was fined $5 and costs. King gave as an excuse that he was carrying the mail to the Kingston and broke down on the Esquimalt road. When the damages were repaired he had only a few minutes left to catch the boat and had to drive fast over the bridge. No fine.

Off for Marysville.

Delegates from the British Columbian and Sound cities left Sunday morning on the City of Puebla to attend the grand council convention of the Young Men's Institute, to be held in Marysville, Cal., beginning September 5. McNeill and H. L. Good; New Westminster—R. McDonald and W. O'Neill; Mission—G. Fortin and M. E. Cleary; Tacoma—Dr. McCormick and H. O'Brien. At the convention a new Northwestern Grand jurisdiction will be formed.

Two Disgusted Travellers.

M. King and H. D. Newbury returned from the north last night on the steamer Princess Louise. They did not reach Queen Charlotte Islands, and had their trip for nothing, and thereby hangs a tale. They arranged to cross from Port Essington to Queen Charlotte on the steamer Chieftain before they left, on the understanding that it would cost about the regular fare charged. Their surprise may be imagined when on reaching Port Essington the owners of the Chieftain demanded $175 to take them across. "We would not have minded particularly had we been chartering the boat, but she had to make the trip anyway with freight. They very kindly offered to throw off $50 and take us over for $125, but of course we did not listen to the proposition." Mr. Newbury remarked that he did not care about buying the boat, but he hated to give her back again for nothing after the trip was completed.

There are complaints that the grouse act is being violated and the police are on the lookout for erring sportsmen.

The Quadra's Work.

The Dominion steamer Quadra, Captain Walbran, returned on Saturday, coming from an eight days' cruise in the Gulf of Georgia. Whilst absent, from Victoria all the Nanaimo harbor buoys were thoroughly overhauled and painted and two of them replaced in their proper positions, namely, No. 3 and the Satellite Patch buoy. A gale of wind blowing from the northwest three days prevented any communication with the Sandhead lighthouse, and also has delayed the sealing of Point Atkinson lighthouse to a more favorable opportunity. The other stations received their annual allowance of coal. The Quadra leaves tomorrow for Baynes Sound, and will be absent about ten days.

The temperance meeting in the Temperance Hall, Pandora street, was held according to advertisement and there was a fairly good attendance. Those who were present from H. M. navy were listened to with great interest. The singing was hearty, and their words, testifying for the Master were very earnest. Miss Smith gave an interesting address, followed by Rev. Mr. Robson of Union. Mr. Robson's address was brief but extremely well chosen, and some ideas in both these addresses were well worth remembering. Miss O'Neil's solo, "There is work for each to do," was also suitable for the occasion, for surely there is work for each to do, till the gin palaces are not only nominally closed on Sunday but until there is not a glass of intoxicating drink sold or drunk on Sunday, to say nothing of other days. These meetings will be continued the last Sunday of each month during the autumn and winter—Communicated.

Return of the Ainoka.

The sealing schooner Ainoka, Captain Heater, with a catch of 1407 skins, returned to port on Saturday evening, 22 days from the Copper Islands. She was seized on July 23rd for alleged infraction of the Anglo-Russian treaty. Her papers were confiscated and she was directed to go to Yokohama, but instead came home. After the seizure she was carried by a gale into closed waters to be again overhauled. However as the matter was explained to the officers of the cutter there will be no trouble over it. Captain Heater does not believe that either the Paiat or Moore were seized. He says that some of the schooners are doing well in Russian waters.

DR. G. M. DAWSON'S VIEWS.

Probable Effect of the Sealing Regulations—Tribute to Our Sealers.

The Montreal Witness gives the following report of an interview between Dr. G. M. Dawson and a member of its staff. Dr. Dawson commenced by saying:

"I think that the result is as favorable as could have been anticipated under the provisions of the treaty, and the terms of the questions submitted for decision. The extraordinary and wholly untenable claims of right successively advanced by the United States in various forms have been severally negatived, with the result of discrediting the diplomatic methods of that country and supporting in its entirety the position held throughout by Great Britain and by Canada. If, as reported in the press, the legal gentlemen representing the United States in Paris are satisfied with such a result, they are easily satisfied, for it is inconceivable that an honorable nation should advance fictitious claims, known to be such, for the purpose of eventually obtaining some subsidiary advantage as a make-weight."

"What do you think of the regulations adopted by the board for the protection of the seals?"

"The question of regulations suitable for the protection and preservation of the fur-seals stood on an entirely different basis from that of the question of right. As explained by Sir Charles Russell in the course of his speech before the tribunal, this was not a matter to be decided by the arbitrators as jurists, but to be determined as between just men in the light of the facts and the rival industries. There can be no doubt that the arbitrators have endeavored to fix a code of regulations in that spirit. Both Great Britain and the United States were agreed in the wish to afford some protection to the fur-seal, but they were unable to agree as to the degree and method of protection desirable and necessary. Had the British and United States commissioners who investigated the facts and discussed regulations previous to the meeting of the arbitration court been able to reach common ground on this question their recommendations would have been without doubt accepted, and failing it, the duty of formulating regulations devolved upon the arbitrators."

"But upon what basis do the arbitrators ground the regulations as formulated?"

"The representatives of the United States took extreme grounds on the question of regulation, demanding nothing less than the complete prohibition of pelagic sealing. This was clearly untenable and has been found so by the arbitrators. But in holding this extreme contention the representatives of the United States practically debarred themselves from offering any useful recommendations looking towards a compromise of interests of a workable kind. Thus, except in so far as the arbitrators have adopted methods of regulation proposed by Great Britain, they were left to their own initiative."

"And what is your opinion of the methods of regulation proposed and adopted?"

"In my opinion the methods of regulation proposed by Great Britain were the best possible under the circumstances and in view of our knowledge of the facts. If these were believed to be insufficient in amount they were susceptible of being made more stringent on the same lines. In so far as the arbitrators have departed from these lines they have entered on a region of experiment. It is difficult to understand upon what grounds some of the regulations proposed have been framed, and it is impossible to say now exactly what the net result of the regulations as a whole will be. The most evident point is that by their very nature they will be very difficult to enforce or carry out."

"What will be the result of the enforcement of these regulations?"

"The first result will undoubtedly be a heavy blow to pelagic sealing, the methods of which will now require to be more or less completely revolutionized. It is therefore probable that the pelagic catch of next season will be small, but as the industry accommodates itself to the new conditions it is likely to increase from year to year till it reaches a certain average limit. Without counting the catch which may be made in each year before the first of May along the coast there will be at least six weeks of good sealing beginning on Aug. 1st in Behring Sea. The enterprise and pluck of the British Columbian sealers will undoubtedly lead them to make the best use of the time and methods prescribed."

"How will the prohibition of the use of firearms affect the industry?"

"The prohibition of the use of firearms in Behring Sea will inevitably deprive a number of white hunters of the means of making a living, and these men are of a superior class as a rule, by no means "hostes humani generis," as they have been described in the sounding terms of the argument of the United States. On the other hand, Indian hunters accustomed to use the spear will be at a premium."

"Do you consider that these rules for the regulation of seal killing will to any extent tend to preserve the seals in Behring Sea?"

"Our investigations show conclusively that heretofore the greatest injury to the seal fishery has resulted from excessive killing and careless methods upon the Pribyloff islands, where the seals land to breed each year. Being within the territorial limits of the United States the regulation of sealing upon these islands was not submitted to the decision of the arbitrators, but as the United States may now rely upon more than adequate external protection, it remains for the government of that country to carry out its professions with regard to killing there. The responsibility with regard to the future prosperity of seal life now rests mainly with the United States, and if the seals do not increase and multiply it will be because of their acts upon the islands."

Dr. Dawson remarked that he observed a regrettable tendency both in Canada and the United States to make the award of the arbitrators a political question as between different administrations. He thought there was nothing to warrant any such view of the question. Throughout the arbitration the imperial and Canadian authorities were wholly in accord, and every point was studied and argued before the arbitration court by the most eminent legal authorities of England and Canada.

"I have," concluded Mr. Dawson, "no hesitation in saying that a separation of interests as between Great Britain and Canada never so much as occurred to any one connected with the case."

Tetanus.

Schultzler (Central b. f. Batk., May 29th, 1893), after alluding to the well-known fact that bacilli of tetanus are habitually found located at their very point of entry, remarks that the lymphatic glands escaped observation until Boedinger recently investigated them and showed that the disease could be conveyed from an animal dead of it to a healthy animal by transplanting from the one to the other portions of the lymph-glands associated with the seat of infection. The portions transplanted were so small as practically to preclude the supposition that the disease was conveyed merely through the contained toxins; bacilli must have been the agents. This observation is supported by Schnitzler's own experiments in the case of tetanus occurring in a patient suffering from gangrene of the feet, the result of frost bite. The swollen inguinal glands extirpated post mortem showed slender bacilli, without, however, terminal spores, such as tetanus bacilli present. Cultivation attempts gave negative results, but inoculation experiments showed definitely that some at least of the bacilli present were those of tentanus. Rabbits and mice into which portions of the glands were transplanted died of tetanus, as did also mice and guinea-pigs inoculated with material from the seat of infection in the animals first used. Preparations from this part showed in all these cases the bacilli with terminal spores typical of tetanus.—British Medical Journal.

Newspaper Morality in London.

Upon what grounds, we wonder, do the majority of London papers conspire to ignore each other's existence? It seems a petty piece of folly, but of course if a paper chooses to do this it is its own affair. If the Pall Mall Gazette publishes the news that Paris has been blown up, or that Africa has disappeared, the Times may, if it likes, continue to come out in affected ignorance of the catastrophe. But it is quite another matter when a haughty morning journal condescends to borrow, and borrow largely, without acknowledging the source of its loan. The Daily News, which we have always looked upon as dull but respectable, while appropriating such of our narratives of the fracas in the House as seemed good to it, ungenerously refers the statements to "an evening paper." The Morning makes no acknowledgment at all.

But the worst offender of all is the Times, which has embodied the statements of our contributors as the result of conversation in the lobby. There is no question as to the origin of these "political notes," as not only are the members whose opinions are quoted those who wrote in the Pall Mall Gazette yesterday, but the very phrases and words they used are produced. It is not so long ago since the Times so mercilessly fell foul of the St. James's Gazette for a similar offense. We take leave gently to call its attention to the fact.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Second Ballots.

A report from the British Embassy in Berlin describing the operation of the second ballot in elections has been laid before the Imperial Parliament. In the present Reichstag there are thirteen acknowledged parties and six independent members. Under the law of May 31, 1869, a candidate is not elected unless he has an absolute majority of all the votes recorded in the constituency; if he does not secure this, the two who have most votes must be balloted for again. In the recent election, 217 out of the whole 397 members were elected at once, and 180 had to undergo a second ballot. The number of votes in the second ballot is oftener less than in the first, and it therefore happens in some cases that a member is finally returned by a minority of the voters who polled in the first instance, and it does not follow that the candidate getting the most votes at the first election will be finally returned. Thus in a district of Schleswig-Holstein the Socialist got 13,097, the Conservative 6326, the Radical 6223, and the Anti-Semite 716 at the first election; on the second ballot the Conservative, although having less than half the votes of his antagonist on the first occasion, secured a majority of 1632, because the Radical belonged to the section of his party which was in favor of the army bill, and his supporters went with the Conservatives in the second ballot.

The Moon's Fault.

In a small Vermont town the street lamps, which are few and far between, are under the charge of one of the oldest residents of the place.

"Why in the world weren't the lamps lighted to-night, Mr. Jacobs?" enquired a summer resident who had stumbled down to the postoffice one July evening in the pitchy darkness of a heavy rainstorm.

"They ain't never lighted on moonlight nights," responded the old man calmly. "That's the rule, and the moon fulled last night, an' this is one of the best nights in the hull month."

"Best nights!" echoed the other, in considerable irritation. "What good does the moon in a pouring rain like this?"

"I can't help that," said Mr. Jacobs. "According to the almanac this is a moonshine night, an' the lamps have no call to be lit. I co'n the almanac's a good thing to go by."

"Why," continued the old lamplighter, surveying his critic with suddenly awakened surprise and disgust, "where d'you s'pose I shd fetch up ef I was t' go by the weather stid of the almanac?' I presume I'say likely I might hev t' go my round ev'ry night for a month in dog days. I don't cal'late to hev no sich works as that. If the moon don't do her duty it's unfort'nit, but it ain't any o' my lookout."

The bystanders murmured assent and the summer resident was silenced.—Youth's Companion.

The Value of Land in England.

This week two important residential and sporting estates in the counties of Suffolk and Leicester, comprising an aggregate of 3800 acres, and producing an estimated annual rental of £5000, have been offered for sale. For the Nevill Holt estate, situate between Market Harborough and Uppingham, in the centre of what was described as the best hunting country in the Midlands, the auctioneer asked £100,000, but invited bids of £50,000 and upwards. No bid was made, and the estate, extending to 1750 acres with mansion, and worth £3000 a year, was bought in on behalf of the vendor. Tattingstone Park, also a property of 2085 acres, with mansion and pleasure grounds, near Ipswich, failed to obtain a purchaser when submitted as a whole. When put up in lots, the mansion and 1000 acres were sold at £37,500; but some of the other lots were not disposed of, the prices offered not being considered to be anything like the approximate value of the property.—London Times.

How He Gained His Point.

A story is told in the New York Times of a well known literary man and his wife which would seem to indicate that not all of the artifice and scheming should be put down to women.

The couple referred to decided to repaper a certain room in their suburban home. Although apparently simple enough this undertaking proved to be a difficult one, as not only was the individual and diametrically different taste of each of the two to be consulted, but the paper that was already upon the walls of an adjoining room had to be taken into consideration as well. Again and again did the paperhanger, who tells the story, come out with his big rolls of samples to the suburban house, only to return with the matter undecided, as the wife was sure to dislike what the husband likes, and vice versa.

At length the husband had a private interview with the paperhanger and suggested that the Gordian knot be cut in this wise:

"You bring out the very first roll that you showed us, which suited me," advised the man whose ingenuity of plot has long been the admiration and despair of the literary guild. "Mrs. —— won't remember it, and if she does I shall immediately say that I don't like it, that it clashes with the paper on the other room, and so forth, so that she will at once declare for it and nothing else. Then I shall yield reluctantly but gracefully to her wishes, and the thing will be settled the way that I want it to be."

The paperhanger did as he was told, and the little plot having worked like a charm, that identical paper is now on the walls of the ——'s living room.

OUR BEHRING SEA "VICTORY"

The Feeling at the Capital Over the Arbitrators' Award.

CONSERVATIVE WELCOMES DAMPENED

The Cry Now Raised That the Sealing Industry of B. C., is of Little Account—"None But Americans Interested."

(From our Own Correspondent.)

Ottawa, Aug. 19.—There is genera dissatisfaction expressed here at the result of the arbitration appointed to decide the Behring Sea case. The general consensus of opinion is that Canada has got the worst of it. This is all the more disappointing because it was universally believed that the result would be favorable to this country.

Indeed, so cocksure were the government supporters of this that everything was arranged to give Sir John Thompson a banquet on his arrival in Montreal. He was to be credited with the winning of the case for Canada. Demonstrations were to be held all over the country with the view of making political capital out of the decision. Mr. Tupper was to be knighted when the time came, and for the present he was to share in the Tory enthusiasm which was to be sent up to welcome Sir John Thompson. It never for a moment dawned upon the managers of these proposed demonstrations that the award might be against Canada. The case was too plain for that.

Now that we have got the result, and that it is anything but favorable to Canada, what are these very people who were to make so much political capital out of a favorable decision saying about it? Simply that the sealing industry is of little account. A man prominent in the Conservative ranks told your correspondent that it was of no account. "Why," said he, "they are only Americans who are engaged in sealing in Behring Sea. The capital invested in the business at Victoria is American capital. It doesn't amount to much anyway."

Another strong supporter of the government said that the only province to be affected by the award was British Columbia. "About a thousand people or so," he said, with emphasis, "are all that are interested in this sealing business. What about it if it should be closed up? We have won the case as far as the question of rights goes, and we can easily afford to lose a few seals."

Even the acting premier, Mr. Bowell, who was not following the case closely, was badly caught in his reply to Sir John Thompson's cablegram announcing the award. "Congratulations," said Mr. Bowell, "better than expected." The acting premier was thinking of the coming demonstrations which were to be extended to the premier. Had he waited a little he would have found that so unsatisfactory was the award that Sir John refused to sign it. It was a bad give away.

Now if the premier was to be accorded all this credit and praise for a satisfactory award, does it not look as if he should get a little of the blame for not securing a better award? That is what the people who think are saying here, while those who do little but shout for the government are allowing their tongues to get the better of their heads.

These proposed banquets will therefore be put off for the present. Sir John Thompson will hasten home from Quebec without staying over at Montreal. Business of importance will require him here at once. So that the political picnics will have to be held on their own merits later on in the season, when the question of the tariff must be discussed, instead of casting it to one side so that a little fulsome praise might be accorded the premier for obtaining Canada her just rights.

British Columbia is always solid for the government no matter what it does, and of course it will fall in with the opinions advanced here in government circles, that as the sealing business in Victoria is conducted by foreigners, then its being closed up does really no harm.

One prominent official in the service here told me that British Columbia was not like some of the other provinces. There was on the Pacific slope, he said, a local government which was more loyal to British than Canadian interests. The fact that Britain won its part of the case would be more than satisfactory to that province, even if a lucrativ Canadian industry was closed up. "Take, for instance," he said, "Premier Davie himself, "and he is a Britisher with the right ring about him. He would go to the other end of Canada to assist an Englishman who is able to talk about this blasted wooden country, while he can never see any good points in a Canadian. When a Lieutenant-Governor was wanted for the province Mr. Davie was one of a delegation to wait on Hon. Mr. Bowell and ask that Mr. Dewdney be sent to them. It would never do to allow a Canadian to fill the office. When Mr. Dewdney wanted a private secretary he searched all over to get a young Englishman, and I have no doubt, knowing the honorable gentleman as I do, that he found one suitable to his tastes. The British Columbia government," continued this official, "highly approve of what you fellows sneer at as codfish artistocracy; and so far they have been successful in getting there."

This is no doubt one of the reasons why the local government always supports the Ottawa government. Hon. Wilfrid Laurier is declared to be disloyal because he says that when the interests of Britain clash with the interests of Canada then he will take the side of Canada. The interests of Canada in this case did materially clash with British interests, and although our Dominion got the worst of it Britain is to-day enthusing over its victory. Consistency, therefore, makes it the bounden duty of all Conservatives to enthuse along with Britain and against their own country. To do otherwise would be disloyal, since Mr. Laurier is declared to be disloyal for his broad Canadianism. Had Canada the power to deal with this case directly, as time and again Liberals have been advocating and moving in parliament, British Columbia would have continued to enjoy the benefits of its sealing industry. But since that province has continually voted against its own interests, although again and again warned of the fact, it can only blame itself if on every occasion its interests are sacrificed.

Just one word as to the contention here that the sealing industry is of no account and that only Americans are connected with it. I would simply ask the readers of the Times if the arbitration had been a success would we have ever heard that only foreigners are engaged in the business? There are no doubt many Americans engaged in the mining industry in British Columbia, but they are only fools who would set up that plea if these mines happened to be closed up.

It must always be borne in mind in this case that in 1891 Blaine proposed to Sir Julian Pauncefote that a zone of 25 miles around the Pribyloff islands should be reserved as a space within which no sealing should be allowed. This proposition the Canadian government rejected. What have we got? A 60-mile zone instead of 25 miles.

General Dispatches.

Steubenville, Aug. 28.—The property of the people of this city is completely at the mercy of a regularly organized gang of "firebugs." There have been twelve fires in the last two weeks, ten of them incendiary. The police have been cut down by a reform council until there are not enough of them to properly protect the city. The fire department has been reduced and the fire horses have been crippled by use in the streets. There were three incendiary fires at midnight last night and three at the same time a week ago. The citizens are becoming alarmed and may organize a vigilance committee.

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 28.—In a sermon to his congregation yesterday, Rev. V. A. Schnell, pastor of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic church, said: "There is great distress in this parish owing to hard times. I have a deposit in the bank which comprises my savings for some years, which added to the pension I get as a union soldier is at the disposal of the destitute so long as it holds out." The sermon caused many persons in the congregation to break into tears.

Removing the Board.

Bridgeton, N.J., Aug. 28.—R. M. Williams, secretary of the county board of excise commissioners, was found sitting in his office chair yesterday suffering from paralysis. He was removed to his home, where he died a few hours afterwards. On the 15th the Women's Christian Temperance Union in the M. E. church prayed that the excise board do not grant any license the next day. The women prayed that God would remove the excise board if the board granted any more licenses. They also prayed at Pitman Grove on August 19th that the board decline to grant any more licenses, and Williams' death is considered a direct answer to their prayers. The good work goes on.

Glass Oven Doors.

It has remained for a woman to invent and patent glass doors for ovens. The wonder is that the idea has not long ago been thought of by some woman who cooks. All cooking instructors lay the greatest stress on the care to be observed opening the oven door to watch the progress of cakes and muffins. Maria Parloa, making sponge cake, touches the nob with the most delicate care and lightness, dreading even to jar the cake within, and peeks through the smallest crack that will afford the necessary glance. What a relief to walk boldly up to the oven, and through these transparent doors, which the genius of a Michigan woman has discovered, study at leisure the progress of rising cake dough or crisping fowl.—The Pacific.

WILL TOUR THE EAST.

Proposed Trip of the Lasrosse Club as an Advertisement.

ALL THE LARGE CITIES TO BE VISITED

Chicago Would be Included in the Tour—Prominent Citizens Start Subscriptions to Defray the Expenses—Their Tenth Victory.

The Victoria lacrosse team won their tenth successive match at Caledonia Park on Saturday, when they met and vanquished the men from the Royal City. The visitors brought down a better team than was expected, their "juniors" being rather larger and quicker than the ordinary junior. Only once during the match was there any sign of ill-feeling and that was during the first game when Charles Cullin was ruled off. He was playing behind the Victoria flags and had just relieved by sending the ball out of danger, Archie Macnaughton securing it and scoring. Mackenzie, the Westminster captain, accused Cullin of fouling his check. Cullin replied sharply and Mackenzie appealed to the referee who stopped the game to rule Cullin off. It was claimed that even if the referee did act properly in ruling Cullin off, he had no right to stop the game to do so. The Victoria captain, very good naturedly, agreed to play eleven men against twelve that game and when a minute later Ross Eckardt scored for them they received great applause.

Westminster's defense and Victoria's home had all the work to do during the second game. McDonald, the new eastern player who had just joined the Royal City team, did some very pretty work when Ross Eckardt, his cheek, gave him a chance, which was very seldom. Eckardt finally got a shot on goal after a long run and scored. Time, 5 minutes.

The third game was the longest and hardest of the match. Macnaughton, Eckardt, Blight, Tite, Frost, Clark, all took shots on the Westminster flags, but the visitors lined themselves before the goalkeeper and it was impossible to pass the ball through them. One of the shots from Eckardt's stick struck Coldwell, the goalkeeper, in the chest. Lewis, of Westminster, also shot twice on Victoria's goal but the ball persisted in going too high. Finally Patterson, of Westminster secured the rubber and scored. Time, 14 minutes. Never before has a visiting team received the applause that Westminster did when they won that game, in fact all through the match good play on the visitors' part was applauded.

Tite secured the ball after the face off and took a shot on the visitors' flags without success. Frost also shot and in the scrimmage that followed Clark scored. Time, 2 minutes.

The fifth game was scored by Frost, eight minutes after the face off. All the play was around the Westminster flags, the Victoria home doing some good team work.

EXCURSION TO VANCOUVER.

The same team that met Westminster on Saturday will go to Vancouver Saturday and play the Terminal City team at Brockton Point. They will practice every evening this week for the match. Arrangements have been made with the C. P. N. Company to run the Islander to Vancouver and give Victorians an opportunity of seeing the match. The fare will be placed within the reach of everyone.

AN EASTERN TOUR.

It is now almost certain that the Victoria lacrosse team will make a trip east. There are two of the team, W. Cullin and W. Clarke, who cannot go, but their places, it is expected, will be filled by Spain and Cheyne, Vancouver's two best players. With these two the team would be a very strong one and well able to hold its own with the crack teams of the east. Telegrams have been sent to all the principal teams in the Dominion arranging for matches. Montreal, Cornwall and Calgary have already answered, stating that they will give the Victoria team the net gate receipts. Prominent citizens of Winnipeg are arranging to have the team play a game there, and answers are now awaited from Toronto, the Capitals of Ottawa, Orillia, St. Catharines and other places. No difficulty is expected in arranging for at least three or four games a week. The team will also play a game in Chicago.

The tour would be one of the very best advertisements the city could have, and a number of public-spirited gentlemen of the city recognize this and have started subscription lists to help to defray the expenses of the trip. They have headed the lists themselves and are asking other citizens to follow their example. Besides this, it will be the means of keeping the team together and giving them an opportunity to obtain new points that will assist them in matches with the strong teams that Nanaimo, New Westminster and Vancouver are sure to have next season. The team will go to Vancouver on the excursion next Saturday morning, play in that city in the afternoon and start for the east on Sunday. That they will give a good account of themselves goes without saying.

EXECUTIVE MEETING.

The executive of the Victoria lacrosse club will meet this evening at R. Irving's office. Business relative to last Saturday's match, the trip east and next Saturday's excursion will be dealt with.

YACHTING.

THE UNLUCKY NAVAHOE.

FOR ALL-COMERS.

Chicago, Aug. 28.—The most notable yachting event that has ever taken place on inland waters will come off this afternoon over the courses laid out by the Lincoln Park Yacht Club. The fact that the contests are open to all comers and the liberal array of prizes that has been offered have served to attract the largest fleet that has ever appeard in Chicago harbor, and by noon to-day the entire two miles of sea wall on the north shore were lined with spectators bent upon securing a front seat.

LAWN TENNIS.

ANDERSON CHAMPION.

Tacoma, Aug. 26.—Jack Anderson is now the champion tennis player of the Pacific Northwest. To-day he beat Foulkes of Victoria, B. C., last season's champion, in a very exciting game, in which both did remarkably brilliant playing. The contest in doubles between Anderson and Bull and White and Purdon was equally exciting, Anderson and Bull winning. Finals in doubles between Anderson and Bull and Hurd and Meserve will be played next Saturday, and also the finals for the consolation prizes and the Marriott cups. The games played to-day were:

Anderson and Bull beat White and Purdon—1-6, 6-3, 15-13.

MORE RECORDS BROKEN.

New York, Aug. 26.—At the National Cycling Association meet Harry Wheeler, in the five-mile competition over a four-lap track, broke all records, English as well as American. His last quarter was made in 27 2-5 seconds, only 2-5 under Zimmerman's best record.

Cincinnati, Aug. 26.—Rain to-day spoiled the track at Chester Park for the international meet of the Cincinnati Century Club. Summaries:

HOLMES' HUBMUG.

Ugly Contradictions of His Statements Coming In.

Vancouver, Aug. 28.—Alexander Robertson, proprietor of the Northern Pacific hotel, was found dead in bed on Sunday morning from unknown causes.

S. K. Champion, who had been missing a week, returned home on Saturday night safe and sound.

Edward Holmes, the would-be journalist and alleged pedestrian, arrived on Saturday evening. He left Montreal on May 22nd to walk to Vancouver along the C. P. R. track. According to his talk he walked 90 days and rested 27, beating his limit of 145 days by 28 days. This would break the world's record for long distance walking, but letters have come stating where he was picked up by section men on hand cars and by freight trains. At one place he left his hotel bill unpaid and directed the host to send it to Mr. Abbott of the C. P. R.

An attempt was made on Saturday night to burn the house owned by H. F. Keifer, whose stable was burned on Friday morning. Incendiarism is suspected.

Saturday's labor demonstration was not so largely attended as last year's. Rev. Joseph Waldrop, speaker of the day, spoke so long that all the sports could not be taken up. Watson of Victoria won the professional mile foot race in 4 min. 45 sec., Harrison a bad second. Harrison won the standing jump. Charles Barker took the five-mile bicycle race in 17 min. 33 sec. Akroyd won the amateur mile foot race in 4 min. 49 sec., the best amateur time on the local track. Laurenson took the three-mile bicycle race in 9 min. 23 2-5 sec. The other events were unimportant.

VERY UNPALATABLE.

Shortened Train Service Not Relished—New Coal Seam.

Nanaimo, Aug. 28.—The contemplated change by the E. & N. railway to run only one train between Nanaimo and Victoria daily has caused great dissatisfaction. It may be a welcome change to Victorians, but it places the citizens of Nanaimo, who constantly have business to conduct at the capital, in the reverse position.

Mr. Myles and Miss Bertha Morris were united in marriage by the Rev. Canon Good at an early hour yesterday morning, in the presence of a large circle of friends. The bride is well and favorably known here, having been reared in Nanaimo from infancy. The presents were numerous and costly. The young couple left by the early train for Victoria, where in future they will make their home.

James Brown, a pioneer resident of the city, was united by Rev. Tovey on Saturday to Miss Louisa Running. Later in the day the newly wedded couple left for Banff, where they will spend their honeymoon.

Complaints about the depredations made in the orchards by mischievous boys are becoming very frequent. It is certain that severe measures will have to be resorted to before the boys are taught a lesson.

A 2 1-4 foot seam of coal has been struck in the Northfield mine, so that the prospects are somewhat brighter for the future. The coal is of the same staple quality as that now being mined, and the future looks very much as though the shipments from this mine will add considerably to the monthly shipments of the company.

Bishop Perrin will organize a branch of the Church of England Temperance Society during his visit to this city on Thursday.

Quebec Notes.

Quebec, Aug. 28.—The bodies of two little children, Dorval and Chatingy, missing for some days from their homes in Champlain street, were picked up floating in the river yesterday.

The body of the pilgrim found dead at Labonne St. Anne has not been identified. Telegrams from Ottawa and Maskinonge state that there is a member of the recent pilgrims excursion from these places missing.

Sir Charles and Lady Tupper with the members of their family went west on Saturday night.

Bishop Northup of Carolina is in town.

It is said a review of sailors and marines of the Blake will be held on the Plains of Abraham next Saturday.

Yesterday afternoon a skiff containing two men capsized in the harbor to-day. The Blake and the Mohawk each sent a boat to the rescue. Both men were picked up by a boat from the latter vessel.

The Missing Sarnia.

Montreal, Aug. 28.—The Sarnia has been 30 days out and still no word of her. The agents are beginning to feel anxious, but are as hopeful as ever that she is all right. The agents say there is provisions enough to last a year. News of the missing boat is eagerly awaited, both on this and on the other side of the Atlantic.
